BYH. C HAMILTON. You said you did not inverse. Marble Kate-Did not love ma, Marble Kate, at the gate Where I pau cd, upon a night, 'Neath the meon's enchanting light, When my heart bade nie walt at the gate; But you said you did not love me, Marble Kate! I had wooed you many years, Marble Kate-Many ears, Marble Kate, at the gate!

Many ears, Marbis Kate, at the gate!
And my beart was made believe
That, tike roses in a sheave,
Onr spirits were t: mate, at the gate;
Bu, you said you did not ove me, Marble Kate! And when the grief had passed, Marble Kate— Fr. in my soul, Marble Kate, through its gate, I wood another heart, That became of life a part; And my soul received a mate through its gate, Though you said you did not love me, Marble Kete!

[Correspondence of the Lonisville Democrat.] Letter frem Missouri.

Forest City, Mo., August 3d, 1858. Messrs. Editors: I see, from a regular perusal of the Democrat, that your gallant corps of which depends, however, upon the prompt paytion of the valley of the "Father of Waters," keep you pretty well posted in the various departments of news, which, of necessity, must transpire in such a vast extent of country.

THURSDAY ..... AUGUST 19, 1858. There is no city, perhaps, in the West, where the want of cheap tenements is so deeply felt as in Louisville. We have splendid houses half of his hard earnings yearly in a house to character or my perso shelter his family. Food and clothing, as well economy so desirable among those of small quarters for their families here. The capitalist could realize a handsome income from the investment in houses adapted to their wants. Houses that would rent at from $100 to $250 per year, and adapted to the wants of a very large class, will always have since the 5th instant, prompt me to take a occupants. We heard, the other day, of an infinite course somewhat different from that which I at first intended taking. A friend has accurate occupants. We heard, the other day, of an instance where a mechanic was compelled to pay one hundred dollars more for a house to live in than he felt able or willing to give; but he of the 31st of July was meant as a threat. My could not find a house in the whole range of his note was intended to be entirely courteous, and inquiries any cheaper—and of necessity, not choice, had to take it. So it is with hundreds in Louisville; and we are surprised that houses once your injurious article of the 5th inst. have not been more generally built, expressly adapted to meet this demand. We need houses for the people—the working, producing mcmbers of the community-not for men of means and fortune. They can build to suit themselves; but the description of houses of which we speak must be supplied. It is a great city want. We are satisfied that such houses will have done. I admit that it appeared to me at pay a handsome profit; and any architect can first somewhat ambiguous, and I was not enfurnish the plan and specifications of such buildings, and the probable cost of the same, at ahort notice. Mr. Barrows, principal of the High School in Palmer, Mass., recently bestowed a kiss upon a handsome female assistant, a fact not very remarkable, or apparently involving any great wickedness. But somebody saw it done and told the School Committee. It is fair to infer that the individuals composing that body are "superanuated fogies" who have long ago forgotten what a kiss is, and can't wait for information till the issue of the New American Encyclorædia, containing the letter K, for they expelled Mr. Barrows from his school. Public sympathy is with the schoolmaster, however, for he has been endorsed by two clergymen, and the people of one section of the town threaten to set up a school on their own ac-count, and employ Mr. B., if the School Committee refuse to reinstate him in his former ITMr. John A. Williams, a conductor on the Kentucky Central Railroad, was scriously injured on Wednesday night last by being knocked from the top of a car by a bridge. He happened to fall in a mud-hole, and in this way, doubtless, was saved from instantaneous death. After lying for some time in an insensible condition, he recovered sufficiently to crawl to a guage was not so exact and perspicuous as to neighboring farm house, where he was attended to. His injuries, though serious, are not conrender mistake impossible.

ing finded with and of passing wagoins, two upright pieces of timber were erected, about eight feet in height, with a cross-piece near the top.
An interesting young Philadelphia lady, having failen desperately in love with a gentleman,
whose attentions were monopolized by a couple of New York ladies—albeit he was a taithful and devoted attendant until their arrival—resolved to make it the last time that she should be so gaily deceived. At the hour for bathing the two ladies and gents were on their way to the beach, when, horror-stricken, they belief dangling from the cross-beam, which, since the occurrence, has been named the "Lover's Swing," the form of a lady in her bathing dress.
She was at once recognized by the party as "the lady in love."

The gentleman quickly lowered the lady by the rope by which she was suepended, and carried her to the arbor on the beach, when it was discovered that her pulse was actively beating.

By the application of some water to her face,
and rubbing her wrists, she epeedily revived;
and in less than half an hour she was seen dashing about in the surf—none more full of life
and spirits than she.

AT The Siskawit, a fish of Lake Superior, is reported to be the fattest fish that swims either in fresh or salt water. The fishermen say that one of these fish, when hung by the tail in the hot sun of a summer's day, will melt and entirely disappear, except the bones. In packing about fifty barrele, a few seasons ago, at Isle Royale, one of the fishermen made two and a half barrels of oil from the heads and leaf fat alone, without the least injuty to the market ableness of the fish. Besides this leaf fat, the fat or oil is disseminated in a layer of fat and a layer of lean throughout the fish. They are too fat to be eaten fresh, and are put up for the market like the lake white fish and Mackinac trout.

Children Afloat on the Lake.—A few days ago, as Mr. Owen was crossing the Lake from Sandusky to Kingsville, in a small schooner, about eight miles west of one of the Islands, he fell in with a small boat containing three children, the eldest a girl of 12, and the others much smaller. The boat was full of water, drifting before the wind, and the children were almost speechless from having been so long in the water, which was nearly up to their necks. They had been seen in the boat in the processor of the boat in the water, which was nearly up to their necks. long in the water, which was nearly up to their necks. They had been seen in the boat in the morning; the father started in pursuit, but being unable to discover his children, had returned to the island. Mr. Owen ascertained where they belonged of the eldest, and kindly took the little waved-tossed wanderers home. They had been floating with the wind from S. A. M. to 5 r. M.—Cleveland Leader, 16th.

If A correspondent of the Cleveland Review, writing from Chicago, says:

"I should say that every real estate man is mortgaged for fire times what he can pay. As a general item upon this point, I will state, upon the authority of a friend who saw the records, that the assessed valuation of the taxable property of Chicago, last spring, was $36,000, 1000, while the amount reported on bond and to rigage, which it was pledged to secure, was over one hundred and nine millions of dollars!"
